Bunny, you fought a good fight. you were a true and faithful soilder. But you were getting tired. So you told your heavenly father that you were reaady to come home your mission here was complete. You you took one last look and smiled. You did not get to tell us good-bye and you slipped away peacefully. God Bless your family.. I know you are in a better place, no pain, no pills, no poking, you are perfect in every way and you are looking down on all of us. SMILING :)
