

Albertha Linscomb

February 24, 1926 - April 4, 2012

LINSCOMB, Mrs. Albertha - 86, passed away Wednesday, April 4, 2012 at Brian's House. Funeral Arrangments are Incomplete.

Tribute Wall

“ Albertha Linscomb

October 09, 2023 at 07:02 AM

“ My fondest memories are of when I was a little girl, Auntie Doll, as we so affectionately revered her, had come one Christmas Holiday season, we had a wonderful time, listening to the holiday carols and she always was so 'spiritually sweet and sound'! I always had wonderful gifts that my mother (her sister) and father bought for me, however she had hand made one of my favorite gifts, "A Hand made doll, brown sugar in color', Her name she affectionately called her, after a theme from the Late Flip Wilson's 'One Way' comedy album, "Discover". She also gave me a beautiful ceramic 'butter dish', that I cherished to this day! I will never forget her because she lives in us, her warmth, is a testament to her 'Beauty and Grace'. when I was a a teenager, I told her that I wanted to be a hair dresser, and she told me ' Baby, that is not 'good enough', I subsequently made mention of other professions, she again would say, their is more. I am currently in the final stages of my Business of Bachelor's Degree, here in Flint, University of Michigan. I will make sure that her influence on my 'Social Entrepreneurship', Stance is focused, I love you Aunt Doll and heaven had your mansion already decorated, furnished and outfitted, just for you. A famous quote spoken posthumously of Socrates of his friends in Phaedo, 'Asks, Where do the Souls of Men Go' after their earthly decent? I know and our angel is in her Celestial body right there!

Gerimane R. Simon - April 04, 2012 at 12:00 AM