“ it has been four years without you and those years have been really hard... i came up with a song about our times together and i couldn't help but cry even though i don't type as much as i used to i still think about when i'm alone i think really hard on the times that we shared we u came to colorado to spend time with everyone u love and i now understand the stress that u have been under with everything that was going on at the time i know that its not my fault what happened to u but i still think that if i could have opened up sooner about what went on that u would not have left but at the same time i know u are in a better place and i cant wait to see u i would give anything to see u again even if its just five minutes.. i think about the holidays that we don't get to spend together physically i know your'e here in spirit but its just not the same as i wish for it to be... i went four more double digit birthdays without u and it hurts a lot that my twin and i aren't able to spend the time of getting older with u.. when times are really hard for me i want to spend that time in your arms and u telling me its gonna be OK and when i go to talk you aren't there i question are u listening do u see what i'm experiencing do u see what im going through... and i ask can u help me because i'm so used to having that connection that u are always here to help..even if its not physical.. i wont lose faith but i have times were i question thing... i love u soo much and i miss u mom.....

“ I would like to express my prayers to the family. I got to meet Autumn 1time. She came to my daughter b'day party & we had a good time. I also recently was talking to autumn & she was the kindness, sweetest person i have ever meet. So to the family know that yall have a beautiful angel watching over y'all. Especially her kids & husband. Thing's may seem much harder before they get better. But remember to keep God first threw it all. & he will heal your pain right now. Blessed to the family
