“ Charlotte, what a sister/friend you were to me growing up and learning about life We've done a lot of things that we'll never regret, the good one and the Bad ones, moments I'll never forget. I don't want you to leave, but we all must Take that path. I refuse to say goodbye I will just watch you fade away while My heart silently weeps and cries. I will see you again on the other side.
Rest in Peace My sister you will forever remain in my heart.

“ Losing Charlotte at this time in life, makes me realize how short life can be. I was born just a few months before her, in 1946. So I think we should be thankful for everyday that we have. But just think, our savior died for us at just 30 years of age. So my hope is that the family will take comfort from his sacrifice. Unlike us, he died voluntarily. Will that loving act make it possible for us to see her again? I sure think so! But, what will you want to say to her then? What do you think she will say to us? I know welcoming her back home will be nice.
