“ I remember that crazy laugh from the time that I was kid growing up in Mississippi and Clarence would come down to visit us. He always made us feel like we mattered to him, and to a poor kid growing up in Mississippi in the 50s & 60s that meant a lot. As adults we developed and maintained very deep relationship. I'll miss your straight talk and candor and most of all, I'LL MISS THAT CRAZY LAUGH!
