A true lover of nature, Cloddie found joy in her garden, where she nurtured a variety of flowers that bloomed as brightly as her personality. Her passion for gardening was evident in the way she tended to her plants, always sharing cuttings and blooms with family and friends, spreading beauty and joy wherever she went. In addition to her love for gardening, Cloddie enjoyed playing cards, movies and often gathering with friends and family for lively games filled with laughter and friendly competition.

She also cherished her time skating, embracing the joy and freedom it brought her.
