Briggs, Sr. and Janus Barrower was born September 19, 2008 at 3:43 AM, on March 30th 2009 at 2:33PM the golden gates of Heaven opened and received an Angel name Cornell. Cornell loved the short life he had with his family. He started to talk a little bit and laugh a lot. Baby Cornell loved attention and if he wasn't getting it he made sure everybody knew. He got the nickname "Fatman" because you couldn't have any food around him. Although he couldn't crawl he did whatever he had to get some of that food. He would suck on his fingers and toes like it was the best thing in the world and when he couldn't reach his toes, he would poke his lips out in the cutest way and let out the loudest cry until you put his toes in his mouth for him. "Fatman" had a smile that could light up a room and warm anybodies heart in a instant. Baby Cornell lives on in our minds and our hearts, it may not be in the flesh but his spirit will always be with us. We love you "Fatman" now and forever. Baby Cornell will always have a special relationship with God because he knows no sin only goodness, grace and love. He gave the gift of life so his blessing of life will live on in others.
