“ To my family,

As I reflect on memories of yesterday I can't do nothing but smile. Even though sorrow may creep in every once in awhile. Sometimes the loss of a love one can take you way back. Past today and yesterday and even way back longer than that. We think of the times we shared and wish there could be more. When we shared our comedies together and had each other on the floor. Nothing means more to me than family although often we might not see, but it is hard when sorrow makes one pull closer to thee. Although our times not promised from day to day, I love you All "My Family", is what I'll always say.

RIP cousin... and may God comfort and keep you all during this time of loss.
