Mrs. Girleane Tate was born July 7, 1935 in Wheatley, Arkansas, the daughter of Mose and Berta Mae Smith. She attended May Anderson High School until the 11th grade. Girleane then married George Miller and moved to Flint, Michigan. She remarried Henry Tate. Girleane was employed by General Motors Corporation where she retired in 1999. In her spare time she loved to watch basketball and football with her husband. Girleane was also adventurous she loved fishing with her sister, Effie Gibbs, shopping and listening to smooth jazz or blues. She always had a sympathetic ear for family and friends. If you had a question she had an answer. Girleane never missed an opportunity to express her love for her family and friends. There's so much more to say about Girleane but there's not enough pages in a book to express the love and devotion we have for her. She was the root to this tree and will always be loved, remembered and deeply missed.
