“ Chasity.... I want you to know that my prayers are with you and your family . I will never forget when I met your mom on our New York trip. And from that point forward she was a good friend, everytime we cross paths she would always say " I keep telling chasity to bring me to your house" I would tell her if chasity did not bring you I will come get you :) We never left without giving each other a hug.It's not everyday that you meet warm hearted people and she was truly a warm hearted person.

Chasity , I want you to know to be absent from the body is to be present with the Lord. Keeping you and your family in my prayers.

“ Just wanted you all to know that you are in my thoughts and prayers. We know that God is our comfort in these times. Lean on him for strength,and allow him to be that for you. Psalms 46:1 God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble.

“ Dear Chasity,

Over the next few days and weeks you'll have people who attempt to breathe a word of comfort to and your family during this transition in life. Many will say, out of protocol, how the Lord will not put more on you than you can bear, or that your mother is at peace. Charge it to their heads and not to their hearts. They mean well. What I want to share with you and your family is that this time will be difficult. You'll experience multiple emotions throughout the day. You'll wish that people would leave you alone; then you'll long for a friendly smile or warm embrace. My prayer for you during this time is simple: I pray God's continued blessing for you and your family. I pray that you lean on those who purposely place themselves in your path as pillars. I pray that you take advantage of the offers when those who too loved Sis. Sumpter, offers to run an errand or prepare a meal. I pray that you find comfort in knowing that your mother will truly be remembered as someone who left a lasting impression in the heart of those who crossed her path. I will forever remember the white gloves, small purse, and coordinating flower she wore in her hair each Sunday at Antioch. and that infectious smile that seemed to fill any void.

Praying for you,
