“ There are many people that pass our way and it seems as though you have known them a lifetime, JB was a very nice guy everytime he would walk by the Barbershop he would stop and talk about how Flint use to be how it is now and just different things that has happened just everyday things in general

JB would come in the shop and get his haircut and the conversations would continue, he loved his neighborhood and God knows he loved his brother Tommie

JB was the type of guy that when his close friend moved off the street he still would come by and make sure his house wasn't broken into

Well to sum this up I just would like to say 'May peace be with his love one's'
