“ Every time I hang out with my aunty and cousins, we have the same argument “who was granddaddy's favorite”. Jesse knew I was the favorite, so instead, we'd argue about which school was better, U of M or MSU. I was a MSU fan and ofc Jesse was the biggest UofM fan. Not only is our family competitive but we can also be petty. So, when I graduated from MSU, Jesse made sure to wear a U of M shirt, and my aunty brought me flowers that were U of M colors at my ceremony. In retaliation, I wear MSU gear every-time I see them, even at at my cousins viewing. Now we're even? In the end Jesse got the last laugh because I wore U of M colors yesterday. Who knew something so “foolish” could become so meaningful. These memories is just a few of many that I get to cherish. I'll cherish every memory, even the ones where I knew Jesse was at our granddaddy's house before physically seeing him because I smelled his feet. Even when Jesse was at his lowest, he'd call me and say “hey cuz I just wanted to check in you” When I should've been the one to check on him. I'll miss the 50 missed calls a week that I took for granted. Most of us only think of ourselves when we're going through things (Me), but that wasn't who Jesse was or what he did. I am grateful to have had such a caring and supportive cousin. I still don't have the words to describe how weird and odd his loss feels to me. Only God knows how big of a soft spot my heart had for Jesse. He really did have an influence on me. My cousin's legacy will live on in me. But for the first and last time, I just want to say, "Go Blue.”

“ To the family of Jesse Sharif Brown; God has taken another of his angles home; for his grandfather big Jesse ;' he was the apple of his eye; he was so proud and happy when he was born. We practically flew up the highway from Iowa to Michigan to see him and the other grandchildren. We don't why, we just know that weeping may endure for a night, but JOY will come in the morning. My family will continue to pray for you all and ask God to continue to cover you with his grace and mercy.... Beverly, Chris, Corey and Neysha (Iowa family)
