“ Everyday a new memory pops in my mind dad. It could be the smell of asphalt that I grew to love over the years of trucking with you. The time you tried to cook me chicken. Walking with me when I was pregnant. Taking me and the kids to the Air Museum. Rollerskating all weekend long. There are to many to count and the memories just keep on coming. I will be forever thankful for the father you were to me. I love you dad.

“ I wish I had more pics of us Rollerskating because that was our thing. Remember when we joined that contest for the jam skate and when they said the winner you got all excited and I said dad that wasn't us and you said yes it was. They said the wrong name 🤔
