“ Momma, this is so hard. I had this child-like belief that you would always be here. It's been 16 days. I hold your belongings in my arms just to smell your perfume. There's a picture of you, years ago, in New Jersey. Out of all the women in the picture, you were the only one looking at the camera and smiling. It has become my favorite picture, because I could tell that you were genuinely happy. That's how I want to remember you. That's probably how you have looked and felt, since March 2nd, and for all eternity. The last day I talked to you, was February 28th...that would've been your 40th wedding anniversary with my Dad. I just want those 9 minutes back, to tell you over and over again that I love you, before you went on to Heaven. I needed to know that YOU knew that you were, are, and eternally loved, Momma. If I caught a glimpse of Heaven, I wouldn't come back either. I love you, Momma.

“ Ms. Marie I will miss you so much. You ment a lot to our family and you was tere for us all the time. You became a familiar face that I will miss around the dinner table on second Sunday. I fee like crying some more, because a big part of my heart is now missing. I will forever miss you. You was a good friend to my aunt Bernice and aunt Emma. Your death is a hard one. Love you and miss you so much.

“ My deepest sympathy goes out to you Marcia and the rest of your family. You and I lost so many precious moments together when you went away to join the military, but all of the memories that we have will remain in my heart. I loved you mother like she was my own while we were in our teenage years and I am saddened by her sudden passing. Just remember that Mrs. Lillian's memory and presence will always be etched in your spirit, soul, heart and her grandchildren. I love you Bestie.

“ I called Mrs. Fair my mother. I saw her last on 2-14-2010 and spent some quality time with her. It has been several yrs. since the last time I saw her. She was dear to me and my family, her guidance shall be forever remembered and the bond we shared shall be missed. She taught me a great deal about the bible and life and how to pray for strength. My deepest sympathy and condolences to Marcia and her family and to Mrs. Fair's family. Music is well said: to be the speech of Angels.

“ Momma, Mother's Day was a little hard. I know you wouldn't have wanted me to mark my body, but I have a little something of yours to keep you close to me always. I hope you and Granny had a good time Up There, since it was the 1st time in 21 yrs you got to spend Mother's Day with her. I hope you got the balloons from me and the Grandbabies. I love you Mom.
