“ Lowell & I worked together in Houston in the 1980's, both 'transplants' from Flint MI. We both worked for the same difficult employer, and would often share stories outside of the office, and try to give each other moral support. I will never forget his sage observations about religion, politics & history. He was a good friend, and it is my loss that I lost track of him for years. I was lucky to have him as a friend.

“ A long life may be filled with accomplishments and setbacks. It is always heavily burdened with the loss of meaningful relationships. We were deeply saddened when we learned of Lowell's passing. He was a lifelong friend, a friendship which survived the separation imposed by adult life. It was he who took the initiative to nurture the relationship with his visits.

We convey our heartfelt condolences to his family and loved ones. We wish to especially express our sympathies and support to Georgia, his sister and a lifelong friend whose vivacity and optimism was a source of inspiration for us.

“ My sympathy to the family of Mr Tyiska. It's hard to cope with death alone, but you can through God take comfort from his words in the Bible at Philippians: 4 : (13 ) that states you have the strength through the one that gives you power.
