“ Growing up, Leonard, Charles and Mac often seemed as much like big brothers as they were cousins to us. Could especially tell their arrival when the motorcycles pulled up. Will never forget when I was in second grade and hated the idea of moving from Flint to Mt. Morris. I was sulking and contemplating other plans of my own, as a matter of fact. Mac came over the day of the move, and he took me for a walk/ride on his shoulders down the block and back. Though still not thrilled about the idea, I felt much better after our little chat. His play-tagonizing always made me laugh. I pray he finds peace and freedom now from all pain and suffering.
