“ KELLY AND FAMILY

*Sorrow is not a lack of faith, and it is not an indication of weakness.
It is the cost of love!*

Sorrow is a journey which we must go through to bring about the healing process; it is not a place to dwell. Sorrow changes with each passing day and dissipates over time. Inevitably our lives are full of change. a series of beginnings and endings. Nevertheless, in the quiet darkness of the night you find yourself feeling the emptiness. Time appears to stand still as the past and present blends simultaneously. But as the dawn breaks and you awake to see the morning and another day begins; the feeling of loss must give way to the light, if you are to value the life that was lived. A gift of life that has not been wasted, a life with purpose and meaning. Life does not stop, whatever the point of interruption. It continues to develop in perfection. Death is not the end! It is the beginning!!!

Death is The Entrance to Eternity

To be absent from the body is to be present with the Lord.

SEPARATION...YES LOSS...NEVER

Hold fast the precious memories and be thankful for the time you shared together, because Marian's life NOW lives on in you.

REMEMBERED FOREVER

May the peace Of God keep you.

Kelly you are like a daughter to me and I will always love you.

“ We are truly sorry to hear of your loss. Our condolences go out to you and your family. Often during difficult times people turn to the bible. Two scriptures that come to mind are Revelations 21:3,4 and Acts 24:15. I hope that these verses are comforting to you.
