“ Aunt Marion was the cook in her family growing up. I loved the few visits we were able to have. Her sister Clemmie, my mom, and Auntie lived on two different coast, so though we spoke gleefully on the phone; the two remaining siblings didn't get to see each other much.

I had the pleasure of driving my mom to Auntie's house in Flint and listening to those two cackling hens reminisce from Flint all the way back to Rodessa. I was honored.

They were both in their 80's at that time.

I miss my Auntie, but I'm so glad the two sisters will never have to be a part again.

They are forever united in Glory. I say to Aunt Marion, as I said for my mother's gravestone: Good Night. We'll see you in the morning.

Love your niece,

Rev. Mary B Wigginton

Daughter of Clemmie Tyson Wigginton
