“ Mya was my coworker at the School of Management at UM-Flint. I first met her this past summer when she started as a new academic advisor. We would sit and talk in the office lobby almost every morning at 8:00 AM. She was such a bright and gentle soul. What I appreciated most about her was that she always made an effort to have a conversation, no matter how she was feeling. It made the days go by quicker and brighter. Even though her passing was so sudden and heartbreaking, I hold on to a future hope—one in which we will see all of our loved ones again. So, Mya, I love you, sis, and I’ll see you later (Acts 24:15).
