“ To my family, we are suffering a big lost, we all love him and he love us back but God love him more. While are heart are heavy dealing with our lost we should feel relieve knowing that he will no longer be in any pain. We all have so many mermories of him that we can hold on to ,how he made us laugh when we didn't want to laugh and how his smile could brighten up the room when he walk in. I say to my family when you want to cry think about the good times that you had with him and remeber he is in a better place.
