“ He was my grandpa's "buddy." He was the first to put a memory on my grandpa's wall. Calling my grandpa a gentleman, and so was Percy. Most of us called him slim but grandpa always said, "that's Percy, that's my buddy." He was the best father figure, grandfather figure anyone could ask for. He loved to brag about his family. He was always showing pictures and talking about everyone as if we knew every single person he ever mentioned. There aren't enough words to express how much light that man brought to the world. I often find myself wanting to ask him marriage advice even though I know most of the time he'd say "that ain't even nothin to argue about Just stop it! Cut thatcrap out." Or if I was wrong about something he'd always tell me " go to Wendy's and get a bacon egg and cheese breakfast sandwich. Make sure you tell em, you want the bacon extra crispy. He'll love it. " He was my go to for advice after I lost my grandpa, but they both live on in all the wisdom they spread. Slim ALWAYS had time for words of wisdom, and those stories never got old.
