“ When we transition to our place of eternity we leave our efforts to be acknowledge by those who lived to see them and receive them thru our accomplishments. The stories told and memories shared are lessons in a newly comprised text call reality. This reality allows us to benefit from it if we complete the assignments left undone by the one in transition. To Honor our Loved one we must do what he hasn't had the time to complete. If it be loving his family, traveling the world ,laughing out loud, helping all that we encounter or just being a good listener for those that need to be heard .Then he will be able to rest in peace.
