“ My dad.. i have lots of stories.. I dont care if you where 90 yrs old or a thug he greet"d you the same by sayn "Hey babe.!!!" my dad was the neighborhood mechanic. As a kid i was under the hood watchn & handing him tools and to this day, Im no push over when getting my car workd on.. dads skills declined as his age increased bt he found unique ways 2 repair anyway.. if he couldnt fix your brakes well he just made your horn louder.. I knew it was time to hide the tools when he fixed my turn signal and everytime i cut them on my windshield wipers would come on.. He never met a stranger..Life is short we should live it to the fullest. Love always Shantel

Sending love to you and the family Shantel. Definitely learned a great deal living next door and watching your father. When I would wake up in the morning, I knew he was already up out there doing something on a car, in the yard or something. Enjoyed every discussion and interaction. Good man and he will be missed.

Leave all to God,

Forsaken one, and stay thy tears;

“ Rocky and Cremela lived next door to me on Taylor street. He loved his vehicles and kept them clean. I used to think he was a body builder because to me as little as I was he looked big with a long black jerry curled hair. They would often include me in family gatherings and as I grew up and they eventually employed me to babysit the kiddos. They outgrew the house on Taylor street and moved to the Hamady district. I visited out there, he loved his wife dearly and all the children, grandchildren just a hard working guy with a infectious laugh. He loved the land and gardening/farming just a good neighbor and friend he would give you the shirt off his back. He will be cherished always. My prayers and condolences to all the family and friends 🙏
