“ To the children, family and loved ones of Seemerica: Seemerica was a kind and thoughtful lady. She treated my baby brother Tyrone as if she were his second mother. My younger brothers and sisters, the Hughey's and Arther's, her neighbors, also loved her. She had told me of her health problem but, asked me not to tell them so they wouldn't worry. The last time I saw her was at my brother Tyrone's homegoing and she was very upset, almost as if he were her child. She is probably back home, talking to my mother and "Ty." We won't say bye but, will say see you later "Sam," when we come home.

“The Dash”

*I read of man who stood to speak
At the funeral of his friend.*

*He referred to the dates on her tombstone
From the beginning... to the end.
He noted that first came the date of her birth,
And spoke of the second with tears.
But he said that what mattered most of all
Was the dash between the years.*

*For that dash represents all the time
That she spent alive on earth.
And now only those who loved her
Know what that little line is worth.
For it matters not, how much we own,
The cars the house, the cash.
What matters is how we live and love
And how we spend our dash.*

*So think about this long and hard.
Are there things you'd like to change?
For you never know how much time is left..*

(You could be at "dash mid-range.")

*If we could just slow down enough to consider
What's true and real, and always try to Understand the way other people feel.
Be less quick to anger, and show appreciation more
And love the people in our lives
Like we've never loved before.*

*If we treat each other with respect,
And more often wear a smile,
Remembering that this special dash
Might only last a little while.
So when your eulogy is being read
With your life's actions to rehash....
Would be pleased with the things they have to say
About how you spent your dash?*
