Sending my deepest heartfelt condolences to the children and entire family of my friend, Shirley Smith. She was truly , one of the realest people that I know. She meant what she said and said what she meant. We had some good times and deep conversations. She will truly be missed from our gang from 11 Tower- McLaren.. no matter where we ended up from 11; we were all still family. As my sister, Charlene, said.. " see you later, girlie".. love and miss you.

“ Mrs. Shirley is what I called you, I never got a chance to say thank you, thank you for your encouragement and prayers daily that I would get via text message. I am truly blessed to have met you and your fiery and fun spirit! One thing you were was honest and I appreciated that. Being a new nurse can be hard, a black one even harder, your words of encouragement will NEVER leave me and one day I hope to encourage someone and leave a positive impact on someone else's life they way you did mine. You will be truly missed but never forgotten :(

“ I am so sad that the Lord decided to take Shirley... I had just saw her on Thursday and she looked great, we were talking about how proud she was of her daughter. I had received my Passport, and she was having a problem with her's... We never know when the will call us... I'm praying that the Lord strengthens her daughter in this time of sorrow, and that she continues along the great path she has started for herself...
