Not only was he a great athlete, he was also skilled academically with continuing his education at Central Michigan University receiving his Bachelor Degree in Social Work, and completing his education at the University of Michigan-Ann Arbor where he received his Master Degree in Social Work.

William was known for his love for the University of Michigan Football Team. He was a season ticket holder for years, and didn't miss a game until he had some challenges with his health. Bill wrote and published three books and was currently in the process of rewriting all of them. The books: an autobiography titled "Buried Love", a therapy training manual, referencing Holistic Rehabilitation, and a book on Job Development. “ Bill and I first met as co-workers at a neighborhood program called "Model Cities". That was almost fifty years ago. He and I remained friends even when we would only talk from different cities by phone. I will miss his bigger-than-life laugh and smile, always honest in his opinions when asked.

"Bill, you have fought a good fight, you finished your course and you kept the faith"

Rest well, my friend.
